The section discussing earth--The Atomic Energy Commission today set Saturday as the day for the controversial Amchitka nuclear test, and rece a set of hitherto secret documents concluding that the blast poses a remote chance of harm.

Environmental groups opposed to the explosion of the five-megaton hydrogen bomb immediately charged that the Cannikin Papers, so called because of the test's code name, document their contention that the blast might trigger earthquakes, tidal waves and release radioactive debris.

The tenor of the 137 pages of documents is that the chances of a major catastrophe resulting from the detonation are remote, but that there is a slight possibility that something might go

Mr. Laird said that he would be conferring with President Nguyen Van Thieu, Saigon's defense minister, its Joint General Staff and other Vietnamese officials during his three-day visit.

President Nixon has ordered the authorized U.S. troop ceiling in Vletnam cut to 184,000 by the end of this month, but actual strength is expected to drop to 175,000 by then. Current strength is 196,700. Mr. Nixon will make a major amouncement on or about Nov. 15 about his 10th increment of troop cutbacks, an increment scheduled to begin Dec. 1.

Sources said thousands of troops will be sent home in time for Christmas. They said many men not scheduled for rotation home until early next year will have their departure dates moved ahead to get them back for

Ross, writing from Washington in the Chicago Sun-Times, said that according to reliable Pentagon sources Mr. Laird is carrying with him a firm plan, subject to change only if the military command in South Vletnam can make a compelling case against it, for an increase in the withdrawal rate from 14,300 men a month to 20,000, pointing to the possibility of a total evacuation by Election Day

Senate Unit Hears Rogers Plea on Aid

By John W. Finney WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (NYT). -Secretary of State William P. Rogers suggested to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to-day that the administration might accept a ceiling on aid to Cambodia but otherwise refused any compromise with the Senate on a new foreign aid bill.

With the administration insistent that Congress pass essentially the same version of the foreign aid bill that was rejected by the Schafe last week, the Forelgn Relations Committee set about drafting a new. strippeddown bill that will probably protha amount requested by the administration.

One likely possibility, suggested today by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D., Maine, is that the committee will break the foreignaid package down into three separate bills dealing individually with economic, military and humanitarian aid. Along with John A. Rannah, administrator of the Agency for International Development, Mr. Rogers eppeared in closed session before the Foreign Relations Committee in an attempt to salvage the bill. One committee member later summed up the two-hour discussion: "It was a lot of give and take but no bend."

Resolution Is Songht

On both sides there was a realization that some sort of legislation continuing the foreign aid program will have to be passed before this session of Congress ajourns. The battle now between the administration and the Senate committee is over the shape and size of the legislation,

After the committee meeting, Mr. Rogers made it clear that rather than a new bill the administration wants a continuing resolution that would authorize foreign-aid spending at about the $3.6-billion level requested by the White House. Before the for eign-aid biill was killed by the Scnate last Friday by a 41-27 vote, the amount had been redneed by the Senate to $2.9

Mr. Rogers made one concession today when he said that the administration would accept a $341-million ceiling on assistance to Cambodia "if that was the judgment of Congress."

Ukrainian Bishops Reject Vatican Control

ROME, Nov. 3 (UPI),—Ukrain-lan Catholic bishops tonight declared themselves independent of direct Vatican control, but reiterated their loyalty to tha Catholic Church, Ukrainian sources said.

The move came, the cources said, as 15 Ukrainian bishops established a permanent ruling synod under exiled Jozef Cardinal Slipyi, The 79-year-old Cardinal Sli-pyi, freed in 1963 after 18 years' Imprisonment in the Soviet Union, called the synod last weekend despite a reminder by Pope Paul VI that he was not empowered to do so. The Ukrainian bishops' major decision, the sources said, was to form a permarent five-member synod to rule their church and shake off control by the Vatican's Department of Oriental that the bishops are not breaking their 376-year link with Rome, but are seeking greater autonomy under a patriarchal system which the Vatican recognizes in a handful of Eastern Churches which returned to Rome from Orthodoxy.

Equal to the Pope

A patriarch is almost the equal of the Pope in his own particular rite or region.

However, Pope Paul has denied Cardinal Slipyi's request to be named a patriarch on the grounds that he lives outside his see. Lvov. in the Soviet Ukraine. Diplomatic sources said the Vatican is unlikely to agree to Cardinal Slipyi'a becoming a patriarch with worldwide jurisdiction over Ukrainian Catholics. This, in fact, is what the cardinal has claimed by setting up a per-that they base their actions on a Vatican Council decree thet gave major archbishops the same rites as patriarchs. Cardinal Slipyi is the only major archbishop in his church.

Increasing enger and a desire for autonomy reached a peak during the current world Synod of Bishops when Cardinal Slipyi accused the Vatican of turning a blind eye to persecution of an estimated six million Ukrainian Catholics in the Soviet Union in order to obtain diplomatic accommodation with Moscow. The Ukrainian bishops, although sharply divided on bow far they should break with the Vatican, also were reported anxious to preserve the spiritual and national identity of their 1.8 mil-

Irish Javy Stops Ship CORK, Ireland, Nov. 3 (AP) .-Irish Navy minesweepers stopped and searched a tiny coaster suspected of gun-running for the IRA early today.

Two Irish warships intercepted the 400-ton, Dublin-registered ship Kilcrea. The navy acted after a tip from Interpol, the international police organization, thet the vessel was smuggling arms from Belgium. The Defense Department in Dublin said no weapons had been found on the Kilcrea by a boarding party, but it added that a more extensive search will be made when the ship docks.

Paris Wants Security Parley Before Force-Reduction Talks

eign Minister Maurice Schumann spelled out in detail today how France hopes to see a European security conference organized in the coming year. At the same time, in a National Assembly speech reviewing foreign policy following lest week's visit to France by Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I, Brezhnev, Mr. Schumann came out strongly against the American idea of negotiating Mutual Balanced Forca Reductions between NATO and Warsaw Pact powers.

Mr. Schumann declared that the force reduction (MBFR) proposal is simply "distracting attention" from the security conference project. Within NATO. tha French have consistently opposed MBFR. They are now stepping up their opposition both openly and behind the scenes, as in their talks last week with Mr. Brezhnev.

High French officials, in fact, are now hinting that as a result of the discussions with Mr. Brezhnev they would not be surprised if the Russians now decide not to receive former NATO Secwho is hoping to start an exploratory mission to Moscow by the middle of this month to discuss organizing a separate MBFR conference.

By Don Cook PARIS, Nov. 3.-French For- to Moscow was worked out at a special NATO meeting at tha deputy foreign ministers' level in Brussels early last month. Although France rat in on the meeting with observer status, it opposed the idea of the mission as it has opposed all other steps in the direction of MBFR.

If the French have, indeed, een successful in persuading Mr Brezhnev and the Russians to refuse to receive Mr. Brosio and to postpone the whole MBFR exercise until after a European security conference, it is going to cause fresh diplomatic strains between Washington and Paris and probably will result in some sharp discussions when the NATO forelgn ministers meet in Brussels one month from now. The hope had been that by the time of the NATO meeting Mr. Broslo would have held his soundings in Moscow and would be able to report back on the prospects for organizing a negotiation.

The French are determined. however, that the European security conference must come first, and that balanced force reductions-if there is to be such a negotiation-might then be undertaken, if the security conference'e outcome is successful and agreements are reached which definitely improve the political outlook between East and West in Europe. Apparently, they feel that they have also now persuaded Mr. Breshney to take this view.

Mr. Schumann told the National Assembly that France wanted to taunch the security condistances across the Pacific, causing death and destruction as ference in the early spring of the coming year with a brief meeting far as 8,000 miles from the point of foreign ministers of all the participating countries. Together with the United States and Canearthquakes, it is not possible at ada and all the European etates from the Atlantic to the Urals (including Spain and the Vatican), there would be between 35 and 40 participating powers. Tangible' Progress

The French then want to see three commissions organized to do the hard negotiating, as Mr. Schumann put it, "making tangible for the people progress to be realized in the fields of security, of exchanges of goods, and exchanges of ideas and peoples."

Although Mr. Schumann did not say so before the National Assembly, the French are understood to feel that these multingtional negotiating committees or commissions should probably work in Geneva rather than Helsinki A minimum of three months to negotiate the basic texts of a "final act" of the conference is envisaged, and Mr. Schumann said the French then would expect the full-dress conference to take place in Helsinki in the fall of 1972.

But Draft Liability Is Unchanged

Selective Service Rules G First Overhaul in Four Ye

By David E. Rosenbaum

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (NYT). The Selective Service System announced yesterday the first major overhaul of draft regulations in four years. None of the new administrative rules, in themselves, make any-one more or less liable to being drafted. But they create entirely new procedures that potential draftees must follow in dealing with their draft boards.

Some of the new regulations. which were published yesterday in the Federal Register and go into effect in 30 days, merely clarify changes in the law made by Congress this year.

For instance, the law allowed President Nixon to abolish student deferments except for divinity students) for all men who were not in school during tha regular 1970-71 academic year, and the President used this authority. The new regulations specify that, to be eligible for a student deferment, a man must have been a full-time student at the end of the 1870-71 school

Changes Made

The rules also create several new draft classifications and abolish some old ones.
The classification 1-Y, which designated a person not fit for eervice except in a national emergency, has been abolished. Persons holding that classification will be reclassified 4-P if their disability is a permanent one, such as poor eyesight or a chronic knee ailment, and I-A if their disability was a temporary one, such as a broken leg. A new classification, 1-H, was created for men who are not immediately susceptible to being drafted. Thus, when a man registers for the draft at age 18, he will be classified 1-H because he is liable to being indocted until the calendar year in which his 20th birthday occurs.

Likewise, a man who has passed his year of eligibility without being drafted because his lottery number was too high will be classified 1-H. Lottery Drawing Involved

Beginning next year, the Selective Service System will determine after each lottery drawing the highest conceivable lottery number that could be reached by draft calls that year. Persons with a number higher than this cutoff will also be placed in category 1-H.

Draft boards will keep no records other than names and addresses of men who are classified 1-H, and the men need not contact their boards except when they change addresses.

The new regulations make several changes in procedures for conscientious objectors. A man will not be allowed to claim conscientious-objector status until be has received a lottery number and then only if his number is below the 1-H cutoff. In the past, men were advised to apply for conscientious-objector status as soon

BONN, Nov. 3,-Mrs. Jutta Manzke today was happily preparing for her next visit to Los Angeles after a sympathetic judge here in effect cleared her of charges of stealing $30,000 from the German Employees Associa-

The 53-year-old Bad Godesberg housewife told the court she had taken the money from the association, where she was employed as a bookkeeper, to help the poor Negroes in the slums of Los Angeles and poor Mexican children in Tijuana, She said that in addition to the purloined money, she gave away some $4,000 of her own on a spree this summer.

Judge Konrad Schmidt was obviously taken with her story. He let her off with a one-year suspended sentence and a fine of

Supervisor Penalized

He was much more severe with Mrs. Manzke's supervisor, Walter Koerber. He was fired by the association and the court ordered him to pay up more than half the money Mrs. Manzke took.

"In my opinion, she told the court a fairy tale and it believed it." said Mr. Koerber. Fairy tale or not, the story told by Mrs. Manzke went like this: Mr. Koerber was "hoarding" money when the world was crying for help. She couldn't give money away in Germany without being forced to pay it back; so where her daughter lives.

She waited until Mr. Koerber went on vacation last July, then took the money out of the bank account in dollars and marks. Then off she flew to her daughter.

Once she got to Los Angeles, she told the court, she met a poor Negro taxi driver whose tale of woe so impressed her that she went straight to the Negro quarter of town. There she began handing out money.

Then she went on to Mexico, any money," he told a newsman. here she told the court there "She wrote her husband while where she told the court there was "indescribable poverty." It

Manson Found Guilty of 2 More Murders

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3 (AP),leader already under sentence of death in the seven Sharon Tate murders, was convicted yesterday of first-degree murder in two additional deaths.

He was found guilty in the killings of Malibu musician Gary Hinman and onetime movie stuntman Donald J. (Shorty) Shea. Mr. Shea's body has never been found.

The prosecution contended that both were slain within a month of the Tate slayings in August, 1969. Although Manson, 36, already was a condemned man when the trial started last June, the district attorney said that all charges against him would be

Manson had been evicted from the courtroom for most of his trial because of disruptive behavior.

The jury of eight men and four women had deliberated for more than 43 hours since receiving the case Oct. 21. Under California law, a separate penalty trial must he held to determine Manson's sentence. It was set to start tomorrow in Superior Court.

Manson was also convicted of conspiracy to rob and murder Mr.

He sat silently as the court clerk read the verdict, and smiled

The state charged that Manson ordered the killing of Hinman because he would not turn over his possessions, worth $20,000, to the "family" which Manson led. It said Manson later ordered his followers to kill Mr. Shea because he believed the stuntman was a police informer and was trying to have the "family" evicted from its communal haven at the Spahn

The 31-year-old suspect, captured yesterday afternoon in Botolan village, about 50 miles northwest of Manila, reportedly admitted that he was one of five men who entered the house of Butler in Forbes Park here on Monday morning, planning to hold members of the Butler family for ransom,

According to police, he stabbed a housemaid to death when she screamed, and the gunmen wounded Mrs. Butler with a shotgun. Four of the gang then fled while the now-captured suspect grabbed Mrs. Butler's daughter, Susan, as a hostage when police arrived. He escaped in a helicopter supplied hy a Manila newspaper, which acted to save Susan's life.

death row. Manson's women codefendants asserted toward the end of their trial that the Tate slavings were engineered as "copycat killings to make authorities think they had arrested the wrong man for the Hinman slaying.

China Could Seek 'Seat' At the IMF

And at World Bank. Raising Thorny Issue

By Hobart Rowen WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (WP).
—Nationalist China withdrew $59.9 million in hard currencies from the International Monetary Fund about a week before its exulsion from the United Nations,

Mr. Sadat's adviser on nation-The Washington Post has learned The action is thought to have been a protective measure against the real possibility that the People's Republic of China will seek to oust Taiwan from both the IMF and the World Bank, which have a cooperative relationship with the UN, although they are not subordinate agen-

The prospect that Taiwan will be ousted from both the IMF and the World Bank is considered a serious possibility at both agencies, but the issue has not yet been precipitated by Peking:

Complicated Situation

Removal of Taiwan would not only cause tha bank to lose a substantial amount of money, but would raise new questions about the viability of Taiwan's economic future. And at both the bank and the fund, the reinstatement of China would raise a host of complicated and disruptive legal questions for which, sources said, there are no ready answers.

Membership composition of the 116-nation IMF and bank is roughly the same as at the UN, with the exception that the Soviet bioc does not belong to the IMF and bank, while West Germany, which does belong, is not a UN member. Since the votes in the IMF and the bank are weighted according to size and power of the various countries, the decision would not neces sarily tally with the split in the UN.

Sources at the IMF and bank think it unlikely that the majority of nations which have now chosen to recognize Peking as the government of China can continue to designate Taiwan as China for the purposes of the IMF and the bank.

But there are complications, not the least of which is that Taiwan has ontstanding obligations of $292 million to the bank, of which $191 million has not yet been disbursed. Against these loans, Taiwan has paid in capital of only $7.5 million, with an-other $68 million in local currencies on deposit in Taipel.

Taiwanese Director Yet another problem is that, of the 21 executive directors of the World Bank, most of whom are elected to represent groops of countries, Reignson C. Chen re-presents not only Taiwan but Korea and South Vietnam.

There is no formal procedure for removing a director before his term is up," a bank source

Another complication is that two associated agencies of the last night as extremely able and bank—the International Development Association, which makes low-interest loans to poor countries, and the International Finance Corp., which facilitates private investment-were formed weli after 1949, when Taiwan assumed the "Chinese seat" in the IMF and bank

Thus, a legal question might be whether Peking, even if it can claim a fund-bank relationship going back to 1944, can make the same case vis-à-vis IDA and IFC. The IFC has $7 million and IDA $13 million invested in Taiwan.

If Pcking should attempt to unseat Taiwan, bank officials ask themseives, would Peking like to assume Taipel's obligations? Since the answer is obviously "no," the assumption at the bank is that the bank would have to absorb a loss through its emergency reserves.

Even if the bank were to suspend further disbursements to Taiwan for ongoing projects, the bank would in that case be in the hole for $101 million.

At the IMP, China's paid-in capital, or quota, is $550 million, mostly in local currencies. But this includes a gold "tranche," or quota, of $59.9 million.

That amount can automatically be borrowed in hard currencies. which is exactly what Talpei did a week before the UN vote. It was Taiwan's first drawing ever on the IMF.

An IMF source explained that if Peking were to establish a legal claim to IMP membersblp. would have had a claim also the existing quota, including the gold tranche. But that possibility has been wiped out by Taipei's foresight.

Thant Ailment Is Bleeding Ulcer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 3 UPI).-Medical tests have re-vealed that Secretary-General U Thant has a bleeding peptic ulcer, a UN spokesman said today. Mr. Thant, 62, entered e bospltel yesterday after feeling dizzy and weak. The spokesman said an operation was not considered nccessary. He said Mr. Thant, who became secretary-general ten years ago today, and who has sald he will step down this year, was expected to remain in the hospital for about two weeks, Mr. Thant was hospitalized for similar aliment in 1964 and recovered without an operation. The spokesman said that the ulcer would be treated "conservatively" through drugs, dieting and possibly transfusions.

Heathrow Ground Crews Vote To Continue Crippling Strike

LONDON, Nov. 3 (Reuters).-Hopes of ending the travel chaos at London's Heathrow Airport receded today after ground crews rejected a plan to end their twoday-old strike.

Despite a warning that their jobs were in jeopardy, the 3,000 strikers voted at a mass meeting continue the stoppage.

The strikers called on their leaders to meet again with the British Airports Authority (BAA) -the body that runs Heathrow. They demanded the scrapping of a contract which permits an outside organization, the Canadian firm General Air Services (GAS), to handle baggage for Spain's Iberia Airlines.

The Amchitka Delusion

Sometime between Saturday night and early next week, at the hottom of a hige hole more than a mile below the surface of the barren Aleutian island of Amchitka, the United States will be setting off an explosion of unimaginable power.

If all goes as planned by the weapons technicians, the earth Itself will absorb the force of this test. The fantastic heat, the terrifying roar, the tearing, blasting, incomprehensible force-250 times more powerful than the explosion that destroyed Hiroshima -will be muffled and contained within the man-made shell 6,000 feet deep and the yleiding, encompassing earth ontside.

The aarth, as weapons technicians view It, is tough and durable. The earth, as many seismologists view it. is flawed and sensitive and unstable. Amchitka lies in an earthquake zone. If the pessimists are right, "Cannikin." as this test is called, may set off a quake under the ocean floor. Then a fearsome wave of water would sweep across the North Pacific, bringing death to coastal peoples wherever it touched land-Alaska hr Japan or Canada or perhaps Hawaii.

Then again the man-made shaft may not hold. Some of the radioctivity may escape into the surrounding water and air. Seals and fish and birds would die. The waters would be deeply poisoned. Of course, the worst may not happen. It only happens now and then.

The probabilities are good that the test will be safe and successful. But the probabilities are also good that this device will never be needed in any defense strategy. Those Cubans in New Orleans

Fidel Castro pulled a smart trick on the United States by sending a plane with 19 sugarcane technicians to New Ofleans for an international sugar production conference. The 19 had earlier been refused visas under a long-standing American policy, implementing strictly the 1964 boycott-Cuba decision of the Organization of American States, to permit entry only to Cubans attending officially sponsored international meetings; the two-week sugar conference is being run by a private organization. Had 19 unauthorized, uninvited Americans flown to Havana, they would hardly have landed in a nifty motel, there to defy the host government's order to leave, to broadcast the complaint that the exit order constitutes "aggression," and to appeal to the other delegates and to local public opinion to let them stay for a "technical meeting," Smoked Havana clgars, too.

Well, we have some sympathy for the State Department in these circumstances: it can't be easy to try to enforce visa regulations on unorthodox types like the Cubanos. But we would as soon have let the Cubans stay. It's not merely that they outfoxed the United States and that common sense dictated cutting losses. It's that the larger policy of isolating Cuba becomes less and less relevant and defensible, if it ever was, as time goes on and as Mr. Castro's "threat" to the hemisphere is seen lo deflate and as the Nixon administration pursues a policy of sensible accommodation with other Com-

Sen. Kennedy on Oct. 12 pointed out how inconsistent it was for an American to go 9,000 miles to normalize relations with Peking, which has "the capacity to offer a real strategic threat to the U.S.," but not to go 90 miles to Havana, whose value to Moscow as a strategic base all but disappeared after the Russians developed missile subs and long-range rockets of their own.

On the very day he spoke. Mr. Nixon, announcing he was headed for Moscow, told a questioner It was "possible" he would discuss Cuba with the Russians. Was lhis a hint of readiness to consider a new policy? On Oct. 21. Deputy Secretary of Defense Packard was asked if the administration's "era of negotlations" extended to Cuba. He replied that this too "would be a logical move at some point." Within the Latin membership of the Organization of American States, sentiment for a review of the 1964 boycott-sanction policy has been building for some time. Under these circumstances it seems unnecessary, not to say unfriendly, to want to ship the Cubahs back to Havana

American Aid

The story is not over: new efforts will doubtless be made by the atministration to restore the aid program. But the Senate vote is not one of which Washington can be proud. The fact remains that during the 1960s the American economy expanded more than three times as fast as its total provision of development resources and that by last year the United States only accounted for a little over a third of the aid provided by the 16 donor countries, whereas it represented very nearly hall of their combined Gross National Product. In these circumstances the President's original proposal to reduce development aid by 10 percent was unworthy of a country whose past record has been full of generosity to less favored countries. -From the Financial Times (London).

'Terrorism' in South Africa

A five-year prison sentence for giving money, clothing and food to the wives and families of political prisoners—the extent of the repression now practiced in South Africa's police state could not be better illustrated than by that stark fact. The savage verdict passed on the dean of Johannesburg fn the "terrorism" trial must reverberate around the world. The fact that the sentence passed is the minimum available under the Terrorism Act may snggest that the judge bas shown clemency. But it also shows what an extraordinarily harsh piece of legislation the Terrorism Act is.

The Anglican Church has not a happy history in its relations with the South African state. It is strewn with trials and deportations, though its good works continue and that state remains unshaken so far. motor.

Two groups emerge badly from trials of this sort. The grotesque agents provocateurs with their obsessive search for Communists are giving South Africa a worse name than it deserves. The high-talking and conspiratorial clique which sit about London and pull the strings at no risk to themseives are equally abhorrent.

-From the Duily Telegraph (London).

Dr. Vorater's new tactic is apparently to gag churchmen by jaliing them and to discredit them by association with shady conspiracies. But the plan has backfired in this case. Where else outside the Soviet Union can a man be jailed for five years for showing Christian charity? The trouble about these show trials is that it is always the South African government which ends up on trial. And in the end It is apartheid which is found guilty.

The Price of Isolationism

Europe is no longer America's cherished child as it was under Kennedy and even Johnson. Applying to America the will for independence, which De Gaulle expressed for France, Nixon desires to slarken U.S.-European ties. "The partnership" spoken of ten years ogo is helng replaced by a much looser alliance. It still provides for close defense cooperation to insure the common security, but also for a rivalry created by clrcumatancea.

The American economic crisis is the major cause of that state of mind. The admission that the United States cannot go on playing world gendarme is a consequence of tixls. and Mr. Connally's growing influence is the -From Fronce-Soir (Puris)

Agnew has been accused of almost everything except a lack of saying right out what he thinks, and one of the attractive aspect of this compulsive candor is that he applies it to himself.

91971 Chicago Daily News !

He doesn't ignore the fact that this city is wondering about whether he will he the Republican vice-presidential candidate next year, or pretend that speculation on the point is manufactured by his old antagonists in the Eastern liberal press. In fact, while he is more critical of the "effete snobs" of press and television than anyhody else in this administration. he is also more available to them and more willing to discuss their problems and his than anyhody else in the capital,

Are people wondering about his future? Well, he says, he wonders about it himself, but he doesn't worry about it. To him, this is a question for the President to decide. There is an illusion in this town, he says, that everybody fights for the ground he holds and struggles for power and position, regardless of private life, or the interests of the party, but Agnew doesn't feel this way.

He'll Follow Orders

He will do what he is asked to do, he says: Get out, because home holds no terrors for him. or go on, if that is what the President wents him to do. It is interesting that he doesn't appeal primarily to the Republican party, Where he has a strooger and more logal conservative constituency than anybody else, including the President himself.

Whatever the President decides about a running-mate next year. the Vice-President is not going to appeal to this conservative ent in the party, which is startled by the President's new welfare, new economic, and new Chinese and Sovlet policies.

It would be very easy to do so. He obviously has his doubts about the wisdom of the President's pragmatic move to the left. He is much more ideological than his chief, but he is clearly not going to lead any charge against the President's policies, no matter what he thinks privately about

Party loyalty, he says, is a powerful influence in nominating conventions, and in a way, Connally is in a comparable position to that of Mayor John Lindsay of New York: able and attractiva, but a new convert in a different party, who will not be easily accepted by the party

From the Vice-President's own point of view, it is a sensible and honorable position. He did not choose the role he has played as Vice-President. Can Scientists Say No to Secrecy?

By Michael Crichton

LOS ANGELES. When I was a schoolboy in the 1950s. I valited to become a scientist, but I doubted that I could. It oppeared to me that scientists were more intelligent, more highminded and ultimately more responsible than men in other fields. In the years since then I have had some exposure to science and scientists and I have lost many hf my illusions. But so far as I can tell, the general public has not.

The myth of special status for science hangs on with astonishing tenatity and appears in diverse wats.

We retain a special attitude toward science, but it is time the myth was inid to rest. As many writers have shown, scientists are completely human. Nor is their work always brilliant and highminded; like garbage-collecting and ditch-digging, sclence is largely a routine business. One should not forget Dr. Szeht-Gyorgyl's ironic comment that cancer research has kept inbre investigators alive than the disdase has killed.

That is a mechanism for progress understandable to anybody in any field,

Science as a method is unique in human history. But its prac-titioners are just as likely to be vaio, philandering, arrogant and stubid as any other group of human beings. And it is from this standpoint that the respon-sibility of scientists should be discussed.

Many painiers done with their paintings after they are soid; many composers loathe what musicians do to their compositions: many scientists are unhappy with the uses to which their discoveries are put. doesn't do the work, someone else will. In that important sense, scientific discovery is inevitable. mordinately expensive. It costs so much that private patrons are victually ruled out-and the current legislation against private foundations exaggerates this trend. If you want to do science, you work for the government. This is increasingly true even for non-military research. The students who attacked Noam Chomsky because his linguistic research was partly financed by the Air Force ignored the cold realities of the situation. There

Perhaps, as J. Bronowski haa recently argued, there should be. Perhaps the government should provide research funds without also deciding research priorities. But that seems highly unlikely from a practical standpoint, and it is not guaranteed to make the world a better place to live. Scientists already hicker over research money; if control over dispersal were entirely in their hands, some very strange decisions might emerge.

And in a sense, pure knowledge is value-free. Who is to say whether research in highenergy physics is more or less important than research in ceil immunology, and by how much? That is a hard question: It will always be a hard question, and It is possible that the bruising Interaction between scientists and politicians which now decides such questions may be preferable to any other mechanism. In the long rim science should, after all, benefit the society-and some

For the individual scientist now faced with serious moral questions, there is one safeguard he can rely on. It is disarmingly simple: He can refuse to engage in secret research, and he can put pressure on those of his colleagues who do. That attitude stands in the great tradition of open, international science. It also assures that his work however it may be twisted by others. at least cannot he twisted to the advantage of a single nation ex-clusively. And that is no little accomplishment.

We are with you at over 3,800 cities and airports throughout the world. Cities, towns and villages where often there are no other cars to rent (you will even find us in Moscow!).

We are with you when you arrive in a strange city and you can't speak the language (we speak yours).

We are with you when you want a sporty car, or a big car with a chauffeur in it, or a little car that's cheap to rent—it's up to you.

We are with you if you lose your keys, or if (heaven forbid!) your car breaks down: with new keys or a fresh car. And if you hold a Hertz Credit Card, we'll provide cash in an emergency.

If you want to enjoy renting a car, Hertz is with you—with girls who enjoy meeting you, and smile to prove it.

If you want a Ford or other fine car that's in as-new condition, Hertz is with you—with a 19-point check that's the toughest there is.

When other companies have run out of cars, offices, or interest in your problems, Hertz is still with you.

Hong Kong, Indonesia, Singapore, Bangkok, Calcutta and New Delhi. Since the first "Assignment Chil-dren" film, the standards of life in Asia have gone up. But still, according to UNICEF, 25 percent of the children born will not live out of their first year. Another 15 percent die from malnutrition and sickness before they are 15. Only 25 percent of the survivors will ever have a fourth-grade education. UNICEFe concern ie to help these survivors. Britons Put Wine on a Worldwide Map

By Israel Shenker

NEW YORK (NYT).-With the flavor of the grape to cheer their enterprise, a team of moderately bibulous Britons has finally put wine on the map.

"The World Atlas of Winc," B richly illustrated gazetteer that does almost as much for wine as wine has done for its authors, has now emerged from the printers. Detailed maps give the location of vineyards and wine regions, even of individual chateaux.

Harold Fullard, chief cartog-rapher of the atlas, drafted a proposal for the work about 15 years ago, but it withered on the vine until wine books began flowing from the presses like water. At that critical juncture of scholarship, Mitchell Beazley Ltd., a British publisher who had earned a fortune with an atlas of the moon, decided to restrial cultures.

The publisher signed Hugh Johnson to write and organize the book-and off the author

He reserved the largest scale for Burgundy'e Côte d'Or, for numerous Bordeaux areas and for several stretches of Germany. "New Zealand has the smallest scale," he said in an interview here. "It's not bad wine, but it's not good either."

A team of cartographers at Fairey Surveys Ltd., in Maidenhead, England-men who hadn't ready for the supreme sacrifice—set to work, Mr. Johnson added a wealth of text and tables and illustrations-views of .. chateaux and labels and vines in bloom.

He dealt with each problem as it came to the surfece. West Germany was about to have a shakeup of its wine laws, cutting down the number of vineyard

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

French Are First to Order Airbus

Air France, the state-owned airline, has become the first company to place firm orders for the European airbus being built by France, West Ger-many, the Netherlands and the Hawker Siddelcy Group of Britain. The company has ordered six of the A-300-B airbuses, and taken an option on a further 10. Three of the airliners are to be celivered in early 1974, the remainder in 1875. The cirbus is a medium-range plane with a 350 to 300passenger capacity.

U.S. Auto Production Rises

U.S. automakers kept new cars rolling off the assembly lines in October at a pace more than double that set for the same month in 1970, when General Motors was shut by a strike. For the first 10 months of the year, the four major producers ran about 13 percent ahead of the January-October period of last year, turning out 7,174,674 cars in U.S. plants compared with the 5,550,862 of a year ago. In October, GM, Pord, Chrysler and American Motors produced 787,612 autos. So far this year, GM production is up 55 percent from a year ago. Ford's is up 12 percent and Chrysler 4.1 percent. American Motors reported a decline of 16 percent from last year's 10-month period.

PARIS, Nov. 3 (IHT),-Interest rates moved a notch lower on the Eurobond market today as the trend-setting terms of the Esso Petroleum funding began to take final form. Its $50 million of 15-year bonds are now expected to pay 8 percent a year interest compared to the 8 1/4 that was indicated when the issue was announced last week. The coupon on the $50 million

7-year notes is expected at 7 1/2 percent, down from 7 3/4. The exact terms will be set late tomorrow, a week earlier than originally planned. The terms and the timing reflect the heavy demand for the issue. Esso, a subsidiary of Standard Oll of New Jersey, carries the highest possible credit ratingmeaning that the terms of its record number of borrowers. Barclays Bank International announced plans today to raise $50 million—$30 million in 15year bonds with an anticipated coupon of 8 1/2 percent and the rest in 7-year notes at 8 percent, Another $50 million will be raised by Honeywell through a convertible debenture which is expected to pay 6 percent a year -down a quarter percentage point from the most recent con-

Consumer Debt Rises At Record Rate in U.S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP-DJ:,-Consumer debt in September rose $999 million from August and was the largest increase on record, exceeding the previous high of $274 million in October 1968.

In reporting the figures today, the Federal Reserve said the rise was primarily concentrated in the auto sector.

Overall, the expansion was due to moderate increases in the extension of installment debt and slight contraction in repayments. Non-installment debt continued in August, when increases were shown in all major categories.

Goods Orders N.Y. Stock Rally Sends Dow Up 14.6

By Vartanig G. Vartan NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (NYT).— New York Stock Exchange prices rocketed higher today in a suddcn burst of optimism as the market posted its best recovery since the record-shattering Nixon rally on Aug. 16. Leading glamour ssues scored hefty gains. The switch from recent gloom among investors and brokers was dramatic. "I think we've seen the bottom for this market." chortled a technical analyst in Wali Street.

The Dow Jones industrial average, starting out with a brisk upswing and growing stronger as the day wore on, boomed 14.60 to finish at 842.58. Only two days earlier, in one of its Blue Monday performances, the market toppled 13.14 to 825.86—its poorest closing level of this Essentially, today's turnabout was regarded as a technical rally that finally erupted after a long and harrowing slide in stock prices. One month ago, the Dow industrials stood at 895.66 and. prior to today, only three faeble gains were seen in a string of 15 trading days.

The prolonged downturn created a sort of vacuum effect that made a technical rally virtually inevitable. The main questions were when, how big and what duration?

Thus, only time will tell whether today's recovery is the start of a sustained upturn or whether it represents one phase of a testing period for stock

In the celebrated rally of Aug. 16, the Dow exploded with an unprecedented advance of 32.93 points in its first reaction to President Nixon's sweeping new gainers, partially helped by short-covering activity, included: Bausch & Lomb, up 4 7.8 to 158 5/8; Levitz Furniture, up 5 1 8 to 99 3/4; Minnesota Mining up 4 3/8 to 124 1/8; Motorola, up 3 to 77 3.4; Burroughs, up 4 to 136, and International Business Machines, up 7 1.2 to 303.

Volume Weak Volume rose to 14.59 million shares from yesterday's 13.33 million. But it still ran below the 10-month average of 15.41 million shares for 1971.

The flow of improved profits for a number of companies was to the strength of today's market.

But the genesis of the upturn existed clsewhere in an amalgam of influences. To begin with, stocks had found a somewhat firmer footing after the sbarp drop in the opening hour yesterday, although the Dow industrials showed a net gain of only 2.12 for that session. However, it provided the initial spark for what would blossom into a strong technical rally.

American Stock Exchange prices gained; 627 issues advancing, 238 declining and the exchange index adding .20 to 24.60.

Stocks a Good Buy Now, Large U.S. Bank Says

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (NYT).-United States Trust Co., one of the nation's largest trust institutions with close to $10 billion in assets under management, has decided to step up its purchases of common stocks.

In a statement distributed to its portfolio managers, as well as to a number of other banks that buy its investment advisory service, the company's investment policy committee said that "with the recent weakness in the stock market, many of the stocks which we favor again look attractive on a relative basis, and, therefore, we believe a more constructive attitude is warranted."

Under present conditions in the financial markets the statement asserted. "We believe that common stocks are more attractive than bonds on a total return basis." The total return on a stock is the combination of its dividend yield as well as expected capital gains.

"In view of our expectations for economic expansion in 1972 and 1973," the statement continued, we think that we are closer to the lower end than the higher end of the range of likely high-grade corporate bond yields over the next year or

Since bond prices move inversely to bond yields, an expectation that yields are not likely to go much lower translates into a belief that bond prices are currently near their peak.

government commission to study, among other things, "creating multiple corporate entities from within IBM's present gigantic corporate structures," was proposed today by an official of a competing firm. D. J. Guzy, executive vice-president of Memorex Corp., said tha commission should be impaneled to assist the Justice Department in pursuit of its 1969 anti-trust suit against IBM. He told a press conference that in addition to studying the possible breakup of IBM, the commission should "study and recommend limitations" on marketing IBM's monopoly and thwart development of competition." Mr. Guzy also suggested that the commission should examine "possibilities for restricting the use of IBM's most anti-competitive weapon, the leveraging of its immense capital surpluses."

imately 75 percent of the profits in the data processing industry. Competition Impossible Mr. Guzy said it is impossible for any other company to com-pete with IBM and noted the recent announcement that RCA was withdrawing from computer hardware manufacturing. Asked how IBM forced RCA out of the computer business, Mr.

Guzy charged that in 1963 IBM pre-announced its model-360 computer to a large insurance company which at that time was an RCA customer. Under the guise of joint development with customer, Mr. Guzy said. IBM practices and product development was able to operate uneconomical-ly, thereby taking the customer activities which now "undergird away from RCA.

General Electric and RCA to leave the computer industry. Mr. Guzy also said he was "dissatisfied" with the progress of the Justice Department's suit. fil-activity. Memorex is itself involved in litigation over product trade secrets with IBM, and has accused IBM of monopolistic practices.

IBM later issued a statement saying "we believe there is no substance" to Mr. Guzy's charges. Although he had said he was Intermarket Fund 1

The information set forth above is historical and is not necessarily indicative of future results. The results indicated by this comparison should be weighed in the light of the special investment techniques and objectives and unique type of investments of the Fund during the period envered, at set forth hereinder.

One consideration should also be given to the fact that the securities compasing the indices ofted are fisled securities of images. Whereas the periodic securities of the fund are selected by the Fund in the implementation of its investment objectives consisting of capital appreciation by using the techniques of investments in hedged positions, arbitrage and arbitrage-related securities, therefore allowing the Fund to invest only in securities which permit the proper use of these special

Furthermore, it should be noted that the results of the Fund and the indice: cited are not entirely comparable. A material difference between the subjects of comparable is that the indices chosen do not take into consideration dividends and interest earned on the securities selected, whereas dividends and interest earned on the portfolio securities of the Fund are capitalized, therefore increasing the net asset value per share of the Fund.

Now you can take advantage of a soundly-managed Petroleum/Energy Growth Plan that concentrates on the increasingly popular oil, gas and energy-related stocks. Over 47 years of worldwide experience in oil investment is brought to bear on the management of your account. Not a Mutual Fund, your account will be to your name with a cooperating NYSE broker. You receive regular confirmations, statements and valuations of your account:

Of course, as in any such program, there are inherent risks. But because of the current long term outlook for critical shortages of all and gas (among other factors) we believe the timing has never been better for capital gain in a soundly managed Petroleum/ Energy Growth Plan for investors with $10,000 or

Apts.

You're apt to find the apt. you seek — a tiny studio or a 10-room flat - in the Classified section of the Herald Tribune.

Schools.

Where to send them to school? The Education Directory is a regular feature of the International Herald Tribune.

It all began in Los Angeles, 1871, with a small office and $3,000. As California expanded so did we.

Now, in terms of population, California is the largest state in the USA. And Security Pacific Bank is the second largest in California.

Indeed, with 415 branches in California, Security Pacific

Bank has one of the two largest branch systems in the USA.

Our clients now include more than 90 of the top 100 corporations in the USA, and our assets have just passed the 8 billion dollar mark.

A pretty good way to end the first hundred years. And start the next.

INTERNATIONAL APPEAL IS one reason Jack Daniel's is uniquely different from other American whiskeys.

Even in Scotland, drinkers find our product uncommonly smooth. And you'll be equally pleased, we believe, the first time you try it. You can obtain Jack Daniel's at duty-free shops throughout Europe. Or, if you prefer sampling just a sip or two, stop by your favorite restaurant, bar or hotel.

To join; and eventually lead, the small high-powered internal consulting group of a major international business organisation; to work out of Brussels with operating companies in several European countries:

To use your understanding of contemporary EDP hardware and your broad experience with information systems: To solve a wide range of business problems mostly concerning the application of EDP.

Could that be interesting to you? Presumably it would be to many people, but even if you are not certain and would like to learn more about the opportunity before deciding, why not send us your curriculum vitae? Your application would be specially welcome if you were at least 35 years of age, had language facilities besides English, and would be attracted rather than frightened by the idea of replacing your boss in the not too distant future. Financially this opening should be attractive to you if you are earning a salary around, or in excess of £4,500.

BRIDGE

An unusual deceptive play on the diagramed deal enabled South to bring home a vulnerable game. His parimer opened one club, and he jumped to two no-trump after East's overcall. North raised to three no-trump, and West led his singleton heart.

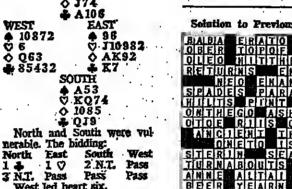

Eight top tricks were available, and there was a possibility of one or two more in clubs. However, East was likely to have the club king to justify his overcall, and an unsuccessful finesse in this suit followed by a shift to diamonds might well defeat the contract.

The declarer, therefore, made a daring play. He won the opening lead in dummy with the heart see, and led the diamond jack. Leading this wide-open suit was less dangerous than it might seem, since it was unlikely under the circumstances either of the opponents held five diamonds, and if the suit did split five-two, they might not find a way to eash five tricks. East put his diamond king on the jack and led another heart, toning that he had enough entries to develop and eventually cash two heart tricks. South won with the heart king, and tried > tricks. Should East have been able to diagnose the situation? It certainly was not easy. But he might have found the clue if he had asked himself why South would lead diamonds once but not twice. It was fairly clear that South must have the spade ace as well as the king-queen of hearts and the queen-jack of clubs, so East's only real hope to defeat the contract was to underlead his dia-

SEXUALITY AND HOMOSEXUALIT A New View

By Arno Karlen. Norton. 666 pp. $15.

Reviewed by Christopher Lehmann-Hau-

OUTTE frankly, ever since it was published last month, I had been avoiding Arno Karlen's Sexuality and Homosexuality: A New View." I had been doing so not only because of its forbid-ding length and controversial subject, but also because I had known of Karlen some years ago as a free-lance journalist and an editor on Holiday magazine. While he may have been extremely able in those trades, such a background hardly seemed to qualify him to write a book whose dust-jacket advertised "the definite explanation of human sexuality, normal and abnormal." Not even professionals who had de-voted their careers to the study of sex could agree on a "defini-tive explanation." How then could an smateur like Karlen even dare to attempt one?

Well, so much for judging books by their covers and authors by their reputations. Although "Sexuality and Homosexuality" may not be quite what its dustjacket claims for it—a subject so close to the "secret" of what makes people tick will probably never be definitively explainedthe book does turn out to be extraordinarily interesting and useful. And it is successful precisely because of Karlen's amatenr standing. With no professional commitments (other than those of a responsible reporter), approaching his subject with no set way of thinking (other than his personal biases, which, he assures us, he scrutinized relentlessly), and having no fraternity of colleagues to defend, he was free to wander from one intellectual discipline to another, to rummage with an open mind through an astonishing variety of theoretical literature, and to win the trust and candor of nearly everyone he talked with, from leaders of conflicting schools of thought to people playing every variety of "abnormal" sexual role,

The result of his approach, combined with the five years of extremely hard work that he put into the project, is an authoritative work that is really much more than a study of homo-sexuality. In a single volume, Karlen has managed to serve up a detailed survey of Western civilization's attitudes toward sexual deviation from ancient Greece to the present (the first such systematic picture ever drawn, he claims). He has gathered together and distilled every theory of sexual abnormality ever propounded. He has explored, explained, and compared all the branches of science that various approaches to "treatment." have you. For the Cubs, he has compiled a 113-80 record in five years, winning 20 games in 1967 and 1958, 21 in 1969 and 22 in 1970. In Windsor, Ontario, Jenkins said winning the award is like having "a big star up there beside my name."

Jenkins said the award should strengthen his hid for a $100,000 salary when he begins contract negotiations with the Cubs.

"It gives me all the more bargaining power," he said. "I can't blame the chib owners for trying to keep a young player's contract down. If you pay him $100,000 now, in two or three years, you might have to pay him $200,000. "Bob Gibson didn't make $100,- at the sight of Bathgate. "Our defensemen were so awestruck they didn't dare move him out of the goal area," Heinz Luthi of Kloten said, after he himself botched a job of bottling up Bathgate.

Bathgate hailed Swiss players as "surprisingly fast skaters" but says they do not hold the stick properly. He is teaching his teammates another grip and is changing their style. "The big-gest problem is to get them to play their own positions, but you cen't change much in so short a time. It will take months, who knows, maybe years. After all, these fellows work on a regular job and do not have much time for practicing." So Bathgate has been reinstated as an amateur free of cost, and he is by far the bestpaid amateur in Switzerland and maybe all of Europe.

Since Bathgate arrived in Ambri, the crowds have grown larger. The bistros up and down the valley are full of talk about him, and special trains are organized to bring fans to Ambri. "We couldn't afford to take care of New York policemen for free if it wasn't for money that UN epies bring in."

Another hotel manager said he had rented out an entire floor to Arah UN delegates directly over Israeli Poreign Minister Abha Eban's suite, when Eban last came to town.

He said, "The nice thing about ples at the United Nations is that they don't cause any trouhle. They are very quiet. All they're interested in doing is getting information and they usually talk in a whisper."

The One Thing That Hitchcock Cannot Abide

LONDON (IHT).—Alfred Hitchcock is a wise, courteous and equable man who refuses to lose his temper even when, as once happened in Paris, he is served a bottle of mahogany-colored champagne

"People say I'm going to give them a piece of my mind. You're flattering people by devoting your mind to them. I say nothing-why give attention to people who don't deserve lt?"

"He does not lose his temper on a film set—That's the trouble with Hitch, he won't fight." Ingrid Bergman once said after refusing the director's request to land on some chalk marks ("Ingrid, you've heen walking on chalk marks all your life"). He is tolerant of actors: "The most important thing is to get the actor to look in the right direction. If you've got a method actor you're in trouble because they'll only look where they feel

"Charles Laughtoo was not a method actor but he used to behave like one. In 'Jamaica Inn' we couldn't film him below the waist for ten days because he hadn't got the character's walk. One day he said he'd got it—from listening to Weber's 'Invitation to the Dance."

The one thing Hitchcock cannot shide is a cliché. In his 53d film, "Frenzy." now being finished up at Pinewood Studios outside London, he was faced with the inevitable scene where the chief inspector explains the situation to his subordinate. Mr. Hitchcock would have none of it.

We've all seen it, it's a bore. I've avoided it hy giving the chief inspector wife. She's very keen on continental cooking." So the chief inspector, a steak and potatoee man, explains the situation to his wife as she bustles about preparing rich concections. In one stroke Hitchcock avoids eliché, advances the plot, gives a sense of character and atmosphere and a comment on the "gourmet food" craze in present-day England He also gives himself the chance to photograph in alarming close-up the wife's horrific bouillabaisse and what he describes as "pig's trotters in a tripes à la mode de Caen sauce."
Finding an unconventional way to do a scene is Hitchoock'e delight, "I think the hest example is "North by Northwest" when I was faced with the old situation of putting a man on the spot. The eliche is be's standing under a lamp in a pool of light. It's raining, the cobblestones glisten, a cat slithers by, and suddenly a face at the window ..."

Hitchcock simply reversed the cliché: he put his hero in bright sunshine, with no trees or places to hide, creating one of the most widely imitated man-on-the-spot scenes in current films.

Now 73, Hitchcock never looks back and never looks at a film once it's cut and finished. He does not believe he repeats himself, though he adds a breezy qualifier: "You are repeating because after all who was it once said, self-plagiarism is called style."

Seated behind a vast, clear, executive style desk at Pinewood Studios outside London, Hitchcock does not move an inch; as alweys he conveys an infinity of expressions behind the blandest of poker faces. His return to film in his native London after a 21-year absence from British studios has caused great jubilation. Mr. Ritchcock takes it with characteristle

'Tve been going back and forth between Claridges and the studio for about 14 weeks." he says. "It's rather like working in a coal mine."

The food in Britain is still not too good, Mr. Hitchcock says. "The guines's not had. but where I liva at Claridges every day there's selle d'agneau. They must have a farm.

Filming in Coveot Garden has given him a great deal of atmosphere at low cost, but Hitchcock is not one to go overboard oo location shooting. "A lot of directors enjoy climbing mountains and that sort of thing. One's done all that, A lot of producers like going abroad for other reasons. Promiscuity that is paid for by the company is hard to resist, I imagine."

The expression has not changed, yet there is an unmistakable twinkle, just as when a passing press agent makes an off-color joke there is a sudden frost though not a Hitchcock muscle has moved "Frenzy" is being made with an all-British cast, all-British technicians who address Hitchcock as "Guv'nor," and anall-British opening scene: On the banks of the Thames near Westminster, a cahinet minister is opening a ceremony to celebrate the de-pollution of this part of the Thames when suddenly a girl's node body comes floating down the river, a necktle around her throat. As they hurry the minister away, he is heard to mutter, aghast, "Good God, she's wearing my cluh tie."

The only non-English thing about "Frenzy" is its director: "I am the only foreigner on the picture," says Hitchcock, being an American citizen."

The hero is falsely accused of being a rapist and murderer. There is a lot of liumor and the murderer is a very cheerful fellow." Hitchcock says. "Most people make murderers so sinister they'd never get near a girl."

The title "Frenzy" is, Hitchcock agrees, a bit hysterical, but it is short and easily translated. "My name must be connected with some indication of horror. If I made a musical I am sure the audience would wonder which of the chorus girls I am going to shoot."

Hitchcock has in fact made a musical, "The Great Waltz" ("Unfortunately." he says, "they couldn't afford the music so they just filmed the story"), and h: made the first British all-talking film. He has a plece of film in the British Museum, was presented with the Legion d'Honneur by the Cinématheque's Henri Langlois ("He's a rather portly gentleman, we did just about make it") and is the world's most famous director. He has never won an Oscar (the 1968 Irving Thalberg Award fails to make up for the slight) and he remains a rich source of controversy among erities. To many younger film makers his work is a Bible, or as French director Claude Chabrol puts it, a dic-

"I once had a Latin dictionary that was so good it did the work of translating Cicero for me, Chabrol says. "Hitchcock is the same—when I have a problem, I just consult a Hitchcock film.

François Truffaut, says Hitchcock, has perhaps gone too far in connecting his work with his Jesnit education. "The only thing about my Jesuit education," Hitchcock says, "is that I was scared to hell. the whole time I was there. Maybe that's how I learned fear." A man who knows so well how to create terror has obviously

In between films, Hitchcock sits in his Bel Air home reading and hrewing ideas. He always has several ideas going, though he may have to wait to put them to use: "It took me 15 years to use Mount Rushmore," he says. He has always wanted to do a dialogue scene in front of an automobile assembly line. While the characters talk one sees the car progress from a carcass to a finished model. It comes off the line, the door is opened, and a corpse falls out.

"I'm still waiting to use the grand opera star who is singing a very high note, head raised, when she sees a man in the balcony stah another man. Her high note becomes a scream of terror for which she receives an enormous amount of applause. The body falls into the audience. The prima donna is in a terrible state and has to be led to her dressing room where she asks to be left alone. Immediately she is alone she lifts the telephone and dials a number.

"And after that," said Alfred Hitchcock,

"I don't know what happens."

Australia's first lady, McMahon, 39, noted in Canberra for her daring dresses, lived up to her reputation Tuesday night at a White House dinner in honor of her husband, Prime Minister William McMahon, 63. She wore a dazzling white gown, silt up to the bodice with strips of rhine-stones. The sleeves were a stepladder effect of bands of open-work and rhinestones. The dress, far more sexy than anything normally seen at the White House, was a striking contrast to Mrs. Nixan's long-sleeved, double yellow lace with an oval neckline and ruffles at the wrist and hem. Mr. McMahon disclosed yesterday that he chose his wife's dress. He said he had first noticed it in a shop, but it was in black. "When I learned of the din-I gave instructions that they matter very much in my household—that she was to go down and have the dress, not in black—because there was noth-ing to mourn about—but in white," he said.

Justus C. Higham of Trenton, New Jersey, is a believer in the old saying "Every vote counts." Higham, former executive secretary of the New Jersey Demoeratic committee, was touring Ireland last week when he remembered that he had not mailed his absentee ballot for Tuesday'a elections. He boarded a plane Friday, landed in the United. States, went to Trenton and mail-ed his ballot, then Monday he flew to London to resume his European trip.

Fulfilling a 20-year dream, Elgen Long, 44, will take off Friday from San Francisco in his Piper Navajo on a 31,000-mile around-the-world solo flight over. both the North and South Poles. He is aiming for these records: first world flight to land on all seven continents, including Antarctica; first solo global flight over the poles; first solo from . Antarctica to Australia, and the first flight crossing the equator at both the Greenwich meridian. and the international dateline, He said he expects to be back in San Francisco on Dec. 3. * * * * . *
